About The Conference

Our speakers will give an in-depth look at how to develop a partnership and improve safety in two companies at one time. Learn from local experts how to improve safety results in your company while partnering with the companies that you work for.

Hear first hand from an OSHA Compliance Officer how the Department of Labor works to keep your employees safe. Learn what the OSHA Act of 1970 requires, including employer responsibilities, inspection procedures, post inspection rights, new enforcement initiatives, employee discrimination protection as well as a review of national and local emphasis programs. Also learn what's new in forklift technology that will minimize injuries and reduce product damage.

You will also get inside information from the experts on how to submit proper data to ensure you are pre-qualified to work in industrial facilities safely. Hear how the most successful companies manage their contractor safety with help from third party data collection agencies.

Who Should Attend

Owners, contractors, and managers that have a need to be informed about how to improve safety, reduce expense and build better relationships with contractors through partnering practices. If you have to go through a pre-qualification process learn inside tips on how to streamline your efforts to get it right the first time. Anyone that works with or around industrial powered trucks that wants to stay in full compliance with the newest regulatory changes. Anyone else who has responsibility for maintaining a safe work site and has responsibility to interact with OSHA during an inspection will benefit from this conference.
